This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

PREFACE.

In offering to the public the first annual Directory of the largest city in the valley of the Mississippi—the "Cresent City," only, excepted—the publisher respectfully invites the attention of his patrons, and others, to the following facts concerning the same.

The compilation of a City Directory wherein the names, residences, and occupations of its citizens are faithfully recorded, together with the location of its public buildings and institutions, and such facts concerning these as the public has a right to expect, is, under the most favorable circumstances, an enterprise requiring great care and unwearied patience; but when, as in the present instance, such a task is commenced and prosecuted without any assistance from preceding labors, and by those, too, who have had but little experience in a similar enterprise, a candid public will acknowledge, that it would be unreasonable to demand absolute perfection in a first attempt.

Yet, the publisher flatters himself with the belief, that, even this work, which originated in difficulty, was prosecuted under embarrassing circumstances, and completed in haste, is not far from being a faithful city guide and business mirror of the "Mound City."

Duty requires the publisher to acknowledge that this could never have been the case, had not his patrons, almost without an exception, when visited by himself or canvassers, to aid him in his efforts, accorded him that aid with an alacrity which has probably never been surpassed in any community, and for which he returns his sincere thanks.

Independent of the advertisements, which speak well for the liberality of the citizens of St. Louis, the present volume will be found to contain, first, an able article, prepared expressly for this work, by our worthy townsman, JOHN HOGAN, Esq., in which the geographical position of the city is given, together with a birds-eye view of the same, its past history, and a sensible view of its future prospects. When this article was solicited it was cheerfully and promptly prepared, and furnished without compensation, other than such as every stranger and good citizen, who has occasion to refer to it, will award. "I shall be amply rewarded," said its author, "if, by furnishing such information as you desire, I can advance the interests of St. Louis!" Let this reply stand recorded for the perusal of those, who, in future, may desire to cull the bright spots which decorate the history of its author's home.

Next in order, comes an alphabetical arrangement of the names of the citizens of this city, together with their residences, trades, occupations and professions. These have been obtained at great expense, and their arrangement attended with much care. Yet, they are, to some extent, imperfect, for the reasons assigned above, and for another, which must appear obvious upon a moment's reflection. In old established cities, where the tracks are well beaten, and method predominates, changes among business firms and private locations are comparatively few, or, when made, are periodical, at regular intervals, and compilers of Directories can take advantage of this fact, and govern themselves accordingly; but in a new city like our own, where the annual increase of its population is at least thirty per cent. annually, such changes must, of necessity, be much greater, and to keep a correct record of them would require a diurnal instead of an annual directory. In order to obviate this difficulty as much as possible, all such changes as came under the publisher's observation were noted up to the latest hour, previous to the publication of this work.

The Business Key which follows, may be relied on as correct, so far as it extends, and strangers visiting the city may find it for their interest to give it a perusal.

The Appendix will be found to embrace much information, compiled from reliable sources.

Such is the first volume of the SAINT LOUIS CITY DIRECTORY, with its imperfections and its merits, and let those who lightly esteem the value of such a work, "consider for a moment what would be the absolute disasters and confusion—the loss of time that would be the necessary consequence of the lack of such an indispensable assistant, not only to business men, but to every inhabitant, and nearly every stranger who visits the city."

The next volume of this Directory will make its appearance on the fifteenth of August, 1858. In the meantime, an exclusively Business Directory will be issued.

In our future labors in this department, we shall endeavor to profit by past experience, and, with our newly acquired facilities, shall, no doubt, be able to furnish citizens and strangers, from year to year, with an acceptable guide.

ROBERT V. KENNEDY.

THE CITY OF SAINT LOUIS.

The city of Saint Louis, in the state of Missouri, is situated on the west bank of the Mississippi river, in the county of Saint Louis, of which it is the seat of government. It is in latitude 38°, 37′, 28″, north, and longitude 90°, 15′, 30″, west of Greenwich.

The site of Saint Louis is both commanding and beautiful; high, without being precipitous, and gently undulating, affording easy drainage, and sufficiently level, without being flat, to extend every advantage for building and beautifying purposes.

The plane of the wharf or Front-street, is thirty-two feet above low water mark. From thence to Fourth street, the streets rise fifty-nine feet to the first summit, which is a plane occupied by Fourth, Fifth, and, in part, by Sixth streets. From thence, in going west, and taking the center of the city for observation, the ground gently declines to Thirteenth street, when we again commence a gradual ascent to Seventeenth street, where, at the intersection of Olive street, we are ninety feet above the wharf.

From this point we again gradually descend for some distance, then again ascend to another plane at Beaumont street, beyond which the land beautifully undulates until we reach Grand avenue, near the western limit of the city, where, near its intersection with Morgan street, we attain the greatest elevation, being one hundred and thirty-nine feet above the plane of the wharf.

Beyond the city limits the same general characteristics of country are maintained, except that for a distance of some three or four miles beyond, it does not attain to the same elevation as at Grand avenue; but the wave-like character is still preserved, and filled, as it all is, with gardens and orchards, it constitutes such a view as is excelled by few of our cities.

The streets run mainly parallel with the river, and are generally numbered consecutively west from Front street, which is the levee; the next, Maine, then Second, Third, &c., &c. The cross streets run nearly at right angles to the last named, and extend from the river westward to the city limits. The whole does not, however, present one uniform plan, because, in the rapid extension of the city, different proprietors laid out additions to suit their own convenience, views and purposes, without regard to uniformity. The streets in the older portion—we may say the "Old French Town"—being that part east of, and including Third street are narrow, and somewhat irregular; the new portion, being that west of, and including Fourth street, are generally sixty to eighty feet wide, and laid out with more regularity. Some of the older streets, as Front and part of Maine, have been widened, so that they do not now present the same contracted appearance to the stranger as formerly; but still, so great is the business done on these streets east of Fourth, that it is difficult often to get along, in the great rush during the business season.

In May, 1849, Saint Louis was visited with a terrific conflagration, which, originating among the steamboats at the wharf, destroyed some thirty of them, and spreading along the levee, Maine and Second streets, from above Locust to Elm, nearly all of the largest business houses, with stocks of various merchandize, were destroyed. The whole loss exceeded, probably, ten millions of dollars! This conflagration was, however, beneficial in this, that it induced the great enlargement of the wharf, so as to preclude another calamity from the same source, and also furnished room for the continually increasing business on this great thoroughfare. It also caused the widening of Maine and Second streets, which have since been built up with business houses, which for strength and adaptation to heavy mercantile transactions, are scarcely excelled anywhere.

Saint Louis was formerly regarded as unhealthy, yet no local cause was apparent, which could produce the great mortality that prevailed. The great influx of population, many of them direct from ship-board, the inadequate supply of suitable, or, indeed, any habitations, the consequent exposures, with change of food, water, &c., in some degree accounted for this mortality, but it was assumed that stagnant water also tended to produce this result; and to remedy it a system of sewerage was inaugurated. Many of the streets in the center of the city have been perforated, and all the large ponds contiguous to the more densely settled portion of the city, have been drained by means of these sewers, now some fourteen miles in length. Whether from this cause or not, it is now a fact, that, with a greatly enlarged population, our mortality has decreased, until Saint Louis is assuming the position of one of the healthiest cities in the country.

The great business of Saint Louis has been commerce, and for this her admirable position is eminently fitted. The great Mississippi washes her eastern shore the whole extent of the city. Hence to the "sunny south," it is unobstructed, (except occasionally for a few weeks in mid-winter, by ice,) and furnishes always a supply of water to bear away the immense products here concentrated.

The numerous large steamboats continually arriving and departing from her wharf, is evidence of the magnitude of her southern trade. Many of these boats are of the largest and most expensive kind, carrying from ten to fifteen hundred tons; and frequently there are from three to ten departures in a day. This will give some idea of a commerce, which must be seen in order to be fully realized.

But the sources of supply are ample. The Mississippi above, navigable for 800 or 1000 miles, pentrates the finest agricultural country in the world, while the turbid Missouri, navigable for fifteen hundred miles or more, and draining states and territories of great extent, and capable of almost illimitable productions, debouches only about twenty miles above, and necessarily brings its commerce to her door. Besides, the Illinois river, one of the finest in the west for navigation, penetrating the center of that great agricultural state, and navigable most of the year, enters the Mississippi forty miles above.

All these rivers have numerous navigable feeders, whose contributions to the commercial importance of Saint Louis are very considerable, while some one hundred and eighty miles below, the Ohio and its many tributaries, are also accessible, and bring their valuable contributions to its commerce.

Thus Saint Louis comes in directly for the principal business of Missouri, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota on the north and east, and Kansas, Nebraska, New Mexico and Utah on the west, while many of the states south are among her most valuable customers.

The advantages of this position were readily seen by the founder, PIERRE LA CLEDE LIGUEST, who having received permission to establish a trading-post in the name of the "Louisiana Fur Company," in 1762, located himself on this spot on the 15th of February, 1764; and thus commenced an enterprise, which, although small at its inception, has grown almost to greatness, during the lifetime of some of its founders.

In those early times the slow progress of the "keelboat" with the "cordelle and pole," were not calculated rapidly to advance the commercial importance of the place; still it was, even then, next to New Orleans, the point of commercial importance.

The introduction of steamboats here, as well as on the other rivers, tended greatly to the development of the country, and to the advancement of its commerce.

At first, from the remoteness of this position, and the rapidity of the current of the Mississippi and Missouri, but few, even of the western steamboats, visited Saint Louis.

The first arrival of a steamboat from Louisville, was on the 2d of August, 1817, in charge of Capt. Jacob Reed, and was named the "General Pike." On the 2d of June, 1819, the first steamboat arrived from New Orleans. She was commanded by Capt. Armitage, and was called the "Harriet." She made the voyage from port to port in twenty seven days!! This was a great change from the old keel-boat time, of six months for the voyage down and back; but progress has been made on this time, as the trip is now usually accomplished in seven days, and has been made in five!

The progress of Saint Louis in her "steam marine," has been very steady, thus indicating clearly her rapid advance to the "Great Commercial City of the West."

Prior to 1834, no steamboat was enrolled here, as up to this time, all, or nearly all, western steamboat interests concentrated on the Ohio. All the fine large boats were not only owned but mainly employed there. The second class of boats generally, with occasional exceptions, came to Saint Louis, and up to that time there was but little, comparatively, doing here.

The whole has changed! Now, the principal steamboat interest of the west, including the ownership and employment of the largest class boats, is at Saint Louis.

It is a proper point now, at which to make some statements, derived from official sources, of the steamboat interest of the port of Saint Louis.

The first record of ownership, or enrollment of tonnage at Saint Louis, is in the report of the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States, for the year 1834, and is stated to amount to 452.04 tons. This by the return of 1836, is increased to 2,482.53. The return of 1838, is 9,373; of 1840, is 11,259; of 1842, is 14,726.80; of 1844, is 16,664.53; of 1846, is 22,425.91; of 1849, is 32,255.08; of 1851, is 34,065.46; of 1853, is 45,441.08; of 1855, is 60,592.10.

Commensurate with this growth has been that which supplies these boats, and numerous others not owned here, with continual employment; for business has, perhaps, increased more rapidly than the boats which aid in its developement.

With a view to the further illustration of the magnitude of this commerce, we add a statement of the number of steam boat-arrivals and their aggregate tonnage, for each of the following years, from Jan. 1st to December 31st of each year, viz:

1853, arrivals, 3,307; tons, 835,397. 1855, arrivals, 3,449; tons, 918,791.

In 1856, the river remained closed until March. From the first of March to the 31st of December of that year, the arrivals were 3,065, tons 894,462, or about 340 boats per month, or tons 99,372.

All the various classes of mercantile business are profitably pursued in Saint Louis. The wholesale dry goods houses are numerous, and their business is very large, principally occupying Maine street. On this street may also be found many extensive wholesale dealers in clothing, boots and shoes, hats, bonnets, hardware and cutlery, china, glass and queensware, books and stationery, drugs, carpets and oil cloths, jewelry and clocks, guns and sporting apparatus, saddlery and saddlery hardware, house furnishing goods, tin, copper, stoves, &c., &c.

The wholesale grocery trade, which is the largest separate business here, and which last year amounted to more than twenty-two millions of dollars, is mostly confined to Second street and the levee.

Many houses engaged largely in the foreign and domestic liquor business, are situated on these streets, and also on Third street, and those cross streets leading from the levee.

Produce and commission merchants, of whom there are many, are to be found on Front and Commercial streets, generally, some few on Maine and Second, many on the cross streets, while Broadway, Fourth, Fifth and Market streets, Franklin avenue, Carondelet avenue and Seventh street, are mainly devoted to the retail trade. But on all these streets there are wholesale houses also, and numerous manufacturing establishments, besides many private dwelings.

Space will not admit of a specification of the business firms of this city, only in a general manner; it must therefore, suffice to say, that their number is largely over six hundred, and the stocks of goods in all departments, are ample and commensurate with the greatly increasing demand in every branch of business.

Many of these merchants in the various classes of business, are the direct importers from Europe of their own stocks, and find it to their interest constantly to increase their imports.

But commerce is not now the only business of Saint Louis. Manufacutures are increasing rapidly, and her position being as well adapted to these as to commerce, the time is not distant when Saint Louis will be recognized as a large manufacturing city.

Iron, being of the first importance, and its manufacture most diversified, entering as it does, into almost all other branches and employments, and now being more extensively used than in the past, it is proper to give it the first place in this brief notice.

It was about the year 1830, that attention was first turned to the necessity of a foundry and machine shop in Saint Louis, able at least to repair, if not manufacture, the machinery for those steamboats which were accessible to this point.

In 1828, or 1829, a steam ferryboat was brought around from the Ohio, as a substitute for the horseboats, until then plying between Saint Louis and the Illinois shore opposite. This boat for a time answered every purpose, but afterward, needing some repair, had to be sent to Cincinnati to have it done. Subsequently, about the time we have indicated, what is now known as the Mississippi Foundry, was started. The honor of this effort belongs to Mr. Newell, since dead; but it is proper to state that the present worthy head of that establishment, Mr. SAMUEL GATY and another of the present proprietors were among the earliest of the workmen. The foundry proper, belonged to Mr. WM. K. RULE. It did not then, it is true, have its present ample dimensions, but it was well adapted to the purpose then in view, and was a beginning.

"Behold how great a matter a little fire kindleth." The place was found adapted to such an enterprise. It prospered. True, its founders had to struggle with formidable difficulties, but they persevered, and finally triumphed.

Numerous enlargements of the old establishment have now almost encompassed the square on which they are located, furnishing a multitude of hands employment, and turning out work of all kinds equal to any in the country.

It would be improper in so brief a notice as this is designed to be, to enter into any more of history in this line of business than we have; suffice it to say, that, at the present time, February, 1857, there are in successful operation in Saint Louis, twenty extensive foundries, nearly all of which have machine shops for the manufacture of steam engines, boilers, mills, &c., connected with them. Besides these, there are four machine shops which are not connected with general foundries. There are also, one locomotive manufactory; four establishments extensively engaged in manufacturing boilers, exclusively; four extensive stove manufactories; four ornamental iron works, casting railing, grates, columns, window caps, frames, &c., &c.; five brass and bell foundries; four scale manufactories; six safe and vault manufactories; two iron pump establishments; four rolling mills; four plough factories; two saw manufactories and one file factory.

Besides these there are other foundries now building, and other machine shops preparing to commence business in various departments; nor are we certain that we have enumerated all now in operation.

But the supply of these establishments is not, and never has been, equal to the demand. Although, in the last two years some new ones have been erected, and all the old more or less enlarged, they are now farther from furnishing an adequate supply, in any one branch, than they ever were before.

The same remarks may, in a measure, apply to several other branches now successfully prosecuted here; as, for instance, furniture, upholstery, trunks, saddlery, saddlery hardware, planes, bellows, &c., &c.

The glass works of Saint Louis have not had a fair chance; still there are two establishments which promise to do well, and are being prosecuted with considerable energy.

Saint Louis is peculiarly adapted to this species of manufacture. In no part of the country is there to be found a finer article of sand, every way accessible and cheap; lead and other commodities entering into the manufacture are abundant, and close by are inexhaustable supplies of potter's clay, equal to any in the world. To these add the opening for sales, and the distance competing articles must be transported, and the superiority of Saint Louis as a place for the manufacture of glass, must be apparent.

To the above we must add four extensive steam rope and bagging works, and several hand rope works. The former possess the most improved machinery, and as Saint Louis is the great primary hemp market, it is easy to see what facilities are offered here, not only for the manufacture, but also for the purchase of these articles of product.

There are also in Saint Louis two large establishments for the manufacture of paints and oils; two chemicle works on an extensive scale; one glue factory; one of bone-black; three starch factories; six large soap and candle factories; seven lard oil factories; one shot tower; one sheet lead and lead pipe factory; one sugar refinery, about the most extensive in the United States; two organ manufactories; two for the manufacture of piano fortes; thirty-six wagon manufactories; eight carriage shops; two spoke and hub establishments; one type and sterotype foundry; one mill for making cotton yarns and cloth; three mills for cotton batting; ten large tobacco factories, besides numerous smaller ones; also, many cigar factories, large and small; eight book binderies; one varnish manufactory; six extensive candy factories; two railroad car factories; the machine shop of the Pacific railroad, manufactures cars for that road, equals in point of finish and convenience to any in the country. There are three optical, surgical and mathematical instrument manufactories; two brush factories, besides, the Missouri Institution for the education of the blind, located in Saint Louis, makes a great variety of brushes, all of which find a ready sale.

The controlling object of Saint Louis manufacture may be said to be flour, of which there is made here about 700,000 barrels annually. This is the product of eighteen very extensive steam mills. The quality of this article is so superior, as to have acquired both an American and European reputation, and commands in all markets the highest prices.

There are also nine steam saw mills; eight plaining mills; four sash, blind and door factories; four distilleries; thirty breweries, and numerous other establishments, as those for hats, boots and shoes, tubs and buckets; also, tailoring, coopering and marble establishments, &c., &c., which we cannot enumerate.

All branches of handicraft, or nearly all, are represented in Saint Louis, and every year adds to the number, and increases the demand for their several products.

Saint Louis presents to the eye of the stranger who first visits it, the idea of great solidity, in combination with rapid progress and great activity. The fleet of steamboats, ordinarily numbering some fifty to eighty, which line its wharf, receiving and discharging their varied freights—the piles of goods which so often obstruct the extensive levee for a mile or more in length—the numerous drays perpetually crowding, and the incessant din and noise, fills the mind at once with an idea of the busy character of the place, and the immensity of its business.

Then the stately edifices, built more for strength than show, although, architectural beauty is not ignored, but rather made to bend to the great designs for which the edifices are erected, which line the principal business streets, all favorably impress the the mind with the solid character of the business of the place.

The chief material used for all buildings is brick, of which there are clays in and out of the city, for the manufacture of the finest quality.

The quantity of building done here may be inferred from the fact, that the brick yards make from seventy to ninety millions of brick, annually! Yet, so great is the demand, that many are compelled to build of wood who would prefer brick, if attainable.

There is a city ordinance, however, which precludes the erection of wooden buildings within an area of about two-thirds of the city, as it existed prior to the last extension; in most parts of the populous suburbs brick is used, but still very many buildings are of wood.

Stone, of a very excellent quality for building, underlies the city and surrounding country; but few houses are constructed wholly of it, although many of the fine modern buildings are using more or less of stone, iron and marble in their construction. The new Custom House, the Merchant's Exchange, and other buildings, are employing this material, furnished from quarries in the vicinity, and beautifully prepared by the Empire Stone Company, at their steam works.

The area of Saint Louis has been enlarged from time to time. It was first incorporated as a town, Nov. 9th, 1809. Its length on the river was about one and one-fourth miles, by a width westward of one-fourth of a mile, and contained about two hundred and thirty-two acres.

December 9th, 1822, it was incorporated as a city, its length on the river being about one and three-quarter miles, its width half a mile, and its superficial area about five hundred and sixty-three acres.

February 15th, 1841, it was again enlarged; its length on the river being four and a half miles, by a width of one mile, and its area was about two thousand nine hundred and fifty-five acres.

February, 1856, it was again enlarged; its length on the river being six and one quarter miles, by a width of about two and a half miles, and embracing about nine thousand eight hundred and forty-seven acres. The extreme length by the river is seven and a quarter miles, and extreme width from the river to city limits is about three miles, or an area of near fifteen and a half square miles.

What the number is of stores, dwellings, &c., we are unprepared to say, but learn that the number of houses built in 1856, was about twenty-five hundred, nearly all of them of a superior class, of brick and frame dwellings and brick stores. Few small buildings are put up here, but mostly such as will accommodate two or more families; and notwithstanding the great number of houses erected, there are scarcely any vacant, but are mostly engaged as soon as commenced, whether dwellings or stores.

Saint Louis is supplied with water from the Mississippi river, drawn up by two steam engines, each of about 350 horse power, and forced through 20 inch iron pipe to the reservoir, which is located about one mile west, and is of large dimensions. The necessity for increasing the supply of water, exemplifies the growth of Saint Louis almost as well as any thing else.

The first reservoir was built in 1831, and was capable of containing 230,310 gallons of water, which was amply sufficient for all the uses of the place. In 1838, enlargement was required, and its capacity was increased 290,000 gallons.

In 1844, it was again enlarged, and its capacity increased 409,440 gallons, making the capacity of the reservoir then located on the first hill from the river, above town, about 840,000 gallons.

In 1848, a new place was required, because enlargement was necessary, and no greater enlargement could take place on the old. In 1850 the new one was completed, capable of holding 7,968,750 gallons; but this again was found too small in 1854, when a new reservoir was built along-side of the former, capable of holding 32,248,125 gallons. The street supply, by iron pipes, extending from the reservoirs, for they are now both in use, is over fifty miles, while of lead service pipe there is laid down over twenty miles.

Thus is shown something of the growth of Saint Louis. It is proper in this place to exhibit this growth as shown by the census returns. The population by the census of 1820, was 4,123; 1830, 6,694; 1840, 16,649; 1850, 74,439. City census of 1852, was 94,000. City census of February 1856, was over 122,000, and the population is now not much, if at all, short of 140,000.

To show that wealth has steadily continued to increase, as well as population and business, we present from the official city assessment, the periodical value of real estate in the city.

It amounted in 1840, to $8,682,506; in 1844, to 13,999,914; in 1850, to 29,676,649; in 1852, to 38,281,668; in 1855, to 42,991,281, and in 1856, over 60,000,000.

These figures do not include merchandize, which is separately taxed, but real estate, furniture, &c.

In as brief a review of Saint Louis as even this purports to be, it would be unpardonable to omit the arrangements for promoting the educational and moral improvements of the population. Yet these points cannot be elaborated; a very brief synopsis must suffice.

There are a great number of private schools in Saint Louis, both male and female, each ranging from the smallest primary to the best grades of high schools and academies.

To these are to be added, the Saint Louis University, and the Webster College, located just west of the city, on the Pacific railroad. Also, the high school of the Washington Insitute, which possesses all the characteristics of a first class college.

But of all these, and beyond them, the people cherish their system of Public Schools.

"The board of president and directors of public schools of Saint Louis" was incorporated in 1836. Congress, by an act passed in 1812, donated for educational purposes certain vacant lands in the town, which grant was transferred to this board. The people, in addition, by vote, caused a levy of a certain small percentage of the city taxes, to be set apart for this purpose, in addition to which the state of Missouri has devoted one-fourth of its entire revenue for the promotion of education in the state, of which a large amount necessarily comes to the aid of the Saint Louis "school fund."

The schools are managed by a board of directors, elected by those who pay a school tax, two from each ward, the city being divided into ten wards, there are consequently twenty directors, one of whom is elected president.

There are now, February, 1857, eighteen large airy brick school houses owned by the board, many of which are really ornaments to the city, in addition to their adaptation to the purpose of their erection. The board have under their charge thirty-nine primary and grammar schools, conducted by 115 teachers, and imparting education to over 5,000 pupils.

Besides these, the board have erected, and last year opened for the more advanced pupils of the public schools only, a first class high school, which is calculated to impart instruction, free of charge, in the highest branches of education. They are now also erecting several more school houses.

There are also two medical colleges, whose professors in all the branches of their profession, are scarcely second to any in the country. The number of students in attendance from all parts of the country, attest the excellency of these institutions.

The religious element is quite prevalent here; consisting of Roman Catholics, who have here an Arch Bishop; Methodists of both north, south, German and colored; Presbyterians, old and new school, and German; Cumberland Presbyterians; Baptists and German Baptists; Episcopalians, who have also a Bishop here; Christians; Lutherans and Evangelical Lutherans; Congregationalists; Unitarians; Associate Reformed; Covenanters; Universalists; Swedenborgeans, and Mormons. Also, one Jewish Temple and one Synagogue. Of churches, there are about seventy, nearly all of them large, stately and ornamental; well adapted to the purposes for which they were erected, and are, in general, well patronized and supported.

Saint Louis has many benevolent institutions, besides hospitals, &c., &c. Many fine buildings, halls, &c. Some first class hotels, but not enough of these fully to accommodate the immense travel, being concentrated by boats and railroads. Two first-class hotels will soon be added to the list.

The railroad interests of Saint Louis are rapidly increasing. Three roads leading east, make now two trips each, each way daily, affording opportunity for choice of routes east, and their connections with the Illinois Central, giving opportunity either to go north or south. The Pacific road is open to Jefferson City, and will soon penetrate farther. The south-west branch is progressing, and will soon open up one of the finest countries to access and trafic. The North Missouri is operating to St. Charles, and will next year connect with the Hannibal and St. Joseph road, thus opening up central Missouri, and if extended as designed, central Iowa. The Iron Mountain road is partly opened, pointing south, and this year is expected to be finished, and bring to Saint Louis, cheaply, those vast treasures of iron and lead, with which the country it penetrates is so astonishingly supplied.

LIBRARIES, &C.

There are many excellent private libraries in Saint Louis, in all the various departments of science.

"The Mercantile Library Association," is a chartered institution, well patronized and of great and growing utility. It now numbers in its cases some seventeen thousand volumes, composed of the choicest selections in all departments of literature. Its rooms are admirably arranged, well illuminated, and prepared for comfortable study. It is one of the places which a stranger should visit on coming to the city, and with the spacious and elegant building with which it is connected, is well calculated to exemplify the mercantile community of Saint Louis, in the enlargement of their views, and their devotion to the cultivation of polite literature, in connection with busy mercantile pursuits. The library of the Saint Louis University is also very choice, and contains many very rare and valuable works, and is well worthy the visits of the studious. It now numbers some twenty thousand volumes. Although this cannot be called a public library, still, from the experience of many, we feel warranted in saying, ready access can be had to its cases by those desirous of consulting its valuable intelectual treasures. For the especial use of the "legal profession," there has been established here, under a charter, a "Law Library Association." For the use of this association, rooms are set apart in the court house, and the library now numbers over three thousand six hundred volumes.

Libraries are also being accumulated by the "Mechanics Institute," the "O'Fallon Institute," the "Catholic Institute," and the "Young Men's Christian Association," but we know not the number of volumes which either of them possess.

There is in Saint Louis a Museum of rare excellency, embracing choice specimens of natural history, &c., &c., but it must be seen to be fully appreciated. Our limits will not allow an adequate description.

THE PRESS, &C.

For the dissemination of knowledge, Saint Louis is also prepared, and "the art preservative of all arts" has its votaries. We have not had time, in the preparation of this hasty sketch, to gather statistics on this subject, but find to our hand a table prepared with great care for a work entitled, "Thoughts about Saint Louis," which exhibits this interest as it existed in 1854, and the extension since that period must be inferred by our readers.

Newspapers published in Saint Louis,	21

There are six lithographic, engraving and printing establishments. Four steel and copper engraving and printing, and three wood engraving establishments, all employing numerous hands.

BANKS, INSURANCE, &C.

For the immense business transacted, Saint Louis certainly has the fewest monetary facilities of any city in the country. The recent action of the Legislature, however, warrants us in anticipating an important increase in this respect, in the speedy organization of several new Banks in this city and state, to consummate which the incipient steps have already been taken.

There is now but one bank in Missouri authorized to issue notes for circulation. Its total capital is only about $1,200,000. The part of this allotted to Saint Louis, is about $600,000.

The bank is well managed—gives all the facilities its limited ability will justify. It never suspended "specie payment" even in the general suspension of 1838. Its notes only pass here as coin, all others are denominated "currency." The bank only takes her own notes or coin, and pays out nothing else. All transactions here are for specie. Currency, that is the paper of other states, circulates, but is subject to discount, according to the locality and condition of the banks issuing.

There are also thirteen private banks of deposit, which deal in specie, currency and exchange. These possess large capital and credit, and do an immense business. They afford great facilities to the business of the city. There are also, six "savings institutions," chartered by the State, and authorized to receive deposits, discount notes, buy and sell exchange, &c., &c., but not to issue notes to circulate as money. The deposits in these institutions, are between three and four millions; their authorised capital over $4,000,000. They all stand well with the community, are rapidly growing into favor, and by their discounts are a very sensible relief to the business community. To these we must add the home insurance companies, now numbering TWENTY-TWO, having a large aggregate capital, which, with their current earnings, is, in the main, invested in short, always available, discounts, for their stockholders and customers; thus, at the same time furnishing ample indemnity as underwriters and facilities for business, and partly supplying the lack of banking corporations.

Many agencies, however, of Fire, Marine and Life Insurance companies of other states, are located here, so that there is no material want on the subject of insurance.

ILLUMINATION.

The city is lit with gas, most of the private houses, all hotels, halls, churches, stores and most offices, are thus supplied with light.

The gas supply is in the hands of an incorporated company, the magnitude of whose operations may be inferred from the size of their new telescope gas-holder, recently constructed at the corner of Fourteenth and Gratoit streets.

This gasometer is capacitated to hold one million cubic feet of gas. It is thirty-five feet below and seventy-two above the street, and is of the most desirable character. Its site was quarried from the solid rock, and it will endure for ages. This, with the one heretofore in use, is expected to supply gas for some time to come. For supplying customers the company have now laid down over forty miles in length of street pipe; but the number of public lamps, or private burners, we are at present unable to state.

Many private families, however, still use the spirit gas, of which there are several manufactories in the city. Also, one establishment for making rosin oil, which it is said can also be used for burning.

GOVERNMENT.

Saint Louis is governed by a Mayor and City Council, elected by the people.

The Council consists of two boards, Aldermen and Delegates. There are two for each board, elected from each of the ten wards into which the city is divided. The police is composed of some 120 privates, besides 14 officers—134 in all. There are also a Comptroller, Register, Auditor, Treasurer, City Engineer, Superintendent of Water Works, Collector of Water Rates, and Recorder for the trial of offences, &c., &c.

The revenue of the city is over $700,000 per annum, and steadily increasing. One-half of the revenue is set apart by the charter to pay interest, light the city, and extend the water works. The city debt is contracted mainly for aid to railroads and building sewers, both of which debts are to be liquidated, the latter by special tax on the property, and the former by the companies. The interest has always been paid on the city indebtedness; besides, she has created a sinking fund from certain sources, including a portion of annual revenue, which now amounts to nearly $1,000,000, the increase of which is used to purchase her bonds and retire them from market.

The foregoing facts, to which allusion is also made in the preface, as having been furnished us by JOHN HOGAN, Esq., embody a history full of interest to every citizen of St. Louis, as they betoken for her a future, teeming with golden promise. To these we might add thoughts, of a character not so exclusively practical, but which might be elaborated into a volume as large as this, were it consistent with the legitimate objects of a mere Directory. The facts set forth by Mr. H. are in nowise over-stated, but rather below the reality, inasmuch as a few weeks have elapsed since they were penned—a period sufficient, in St. Louis, to affect, materially, the social relations, and to add much to the magnitude and increase of many branches of the business of her citizens.

Within our own recollection, such changes have occurred, all tending to illustrate the onward progress of St. Louis to a point of unexampled prosperity, as have astonished her most sanguine friends. If, sixteen years ago, when we first arrived, and sojourned, for some weeks, here, we had been told that, in 1857, the population of the city would reach ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY THOUSAND, we should have deemed the assertion either an idle boast, or the prediction of a dreaming enthusiast. We have, since that time, watched her growing greatness with emotions of mingled surprise and exultation. And this has occurred, too, with but few of those artificial aids and appliances so essential to the full development of all inland cities.

And if we go still farther back—to the year 1821, the period at which one of our 'illustrious predecessors,' JOHN A. PAXTON, Esq., published the first Directory of St. Louis, a period of only thirty-six years—we have still more cause for amazement at the contrast presented. That worthy gentleman thought it a matter of special wonderment, that the fifty-seven years which had then elapsed since the occupation and settlement of this spot, by PIERRE LA CLEDE LIGUEST and his associates, (in 1764,) had witnessed the expulsion of the red man, the introduction of civilization, and the founding of a "town," numbering five thousand five hundred souls! These astonishing facts he placed upon record, with evident self-satisfaction, and added, exultingly, that "St. Louis had grown very rapidly!" What would he think now, if he could be permitted to revisit the earth, to find here a city rivaling, in everything that serves to make up a great commercial emporium, nearly every other in the Union—with her fleet of magnificent steamers, compactly lining her wharves for miles—her hundreds of extensive mercantile and manufacturing establishments—her thousands of busy merchants, manufacturers and artizans, and the tens of thousands of all other classes, citizens and strangers, who crowd every mart and thoroughfare—a city with an enlightened, moral, and energetic population, numbering ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY THOUSAND, with every prospect of nearly doubling that population ere the close of the present decade! These, with the thousands of noble and stately edifices, public and private, that would meet his view, on every hand, would doubtless lead him to suspect that something not far short of supernatural influence had wrought the changes which surrounded him!

We imagine that LA CLEDE and his comrades never, even in their wildest dreamings, anticipated a tithe of what reality has developed, as to the growth and importance of their once trading-post. When they erected their rude tents here, on the margin of the "Father of Waters," it never occured to them that they were founding a city, destined soon, to outstrip in wealth, population and refinement, every other west of the Alleghanies; that their birch canoes or rude keelboats were so soon to give place to the magnificent steamers that divide the waters of our noble river and her tributaries—those immense and gorgeous floating palaces that deck our wharf—or,

"Walking the waters like a thing of life,"

Convey to our marts thousands of passengers, and the surplus wealth of millions of happy and prosperous people. Or, to the hardy and adventurous pioneer—

"Whose axe rang wildly through those forest shades,
Which from creation t'ward the sky had towered
In unshorn beauty"—

That he was preparing the site for giant edifices, soon to rear their heads towards heaven, rivaling, in grandeur and magnificence, the temples of Oriental history; that his remote retreat would be so suddenly invaded by the tread of Empire; that the wings of Commerce would so soon waft her treasures to this shore, and she herself take up her permanent abode here on the west bank of the Mississippi.

These reflections probably never occurred to those stalwart men—whose fancied paradise was a country tenanted by savage beasts, and a home environed by still more savage men—who courted danger for its excitement, and shunned society for its monotony—who,

"When Hyperion waked the blushing morn,
To rear his gorgeous sapphire throne on high,"

Set out upon the chase, indifferent, alike, as to whether the buffalo or the savage first met the aim of their unerring rifles.

But, if the past has so transcended all expectation—if St. Louis has been so miraculously transformed, from a mere Indian trading-post, (and that, too, in a period within the memory of some of her present citizens,) to a great and prosperous city, without the aid of those fortuitous circumstances which usually contribute to the advancement of great emporiums, what are we to anticipate from a future, already glowing with brilliant promise!

An enlightened policy has stricken the shackles from the enslaved energies of our great state, by giving aid to our projected railroads, and enabling us to increase our banking facilities to an extent commensurate with the demands of trade. Manufacturing establishments are being multiplied, and, with the increased facilities afforded by our railroads, for obtaining the raw material used in these establishments, (which scientific research has proved to exist in inexhaustible quantities in our soil,) it requires no foresight to determine that, next to commerce, manufactures will most engage our attention.

The new territories of Kansas and Nebraska, now rapidly filling up, should make St. Louis the depôt for the surplus products of their teeming virgin soil; in return for which our merchants and manufacturers will reap a golden harvest, in furnishing the goods and implements necessary to supply their large and increasing population. The trade of these two incipient states must not be diverted from its legitimate channel by any act of ours, but rather be invited, by the exhibition of a proper degree of courtesy and good feeling.

The superior geographical position of St. Louis, as the center of an immense region of fertile country, and lying on the direct route, marked out by nature, as the great national highway, connecting the Atlantic and Pacific oceans—her present and increasing accessibility to commerce—the rapid development and growing population of all the surrounding country—the facilities which will soon be afforded to business, in the increase of a home currency—the erection of a bridge across the Mississippi, connecting us with our neighbors in Illinois, thereby greatly appreciating the value of their lands, and tending to enhance their wealth and population—with many other advantages, which might be stated—combine in bespeaking for St. Louis a prosperity brilliant as the sun, and lasting as time!

BUSINESS MIRROR.

THE following Business Directory may be relied on as generally correct. In some instances, no doubt, employées have been set down as principals; — this, in a first canvass, must be the case, to some extent; but all such errors will be corrected in the next annual volume.....The asterisk (*) has been used to designate wholesale dealers; yet, in some instances where this character is used, the parties are both wholesale and retail dealers.....In preparing this Key, it has been the aim of the publisher to do justice to all, by placing every kind of business under its legitimate head. With this view, the persons engaged in canvassing were explicitly instructed to make full reports, and ample notice was given to the public through the press. If, therefore, omissions have been made and errors committed, the fault must rest elsewhere than with the publisher; and although these reports may lack much of being complete, they will, at least, serve as a guide in making up the next and succeeding volumes.

OBSERVATIONS.

Alby, Leonard, Page, Channing and Ware avenues run north and south between Stoddard addition and Grand avenue, also Caroline, Coleman, Bacon and Francis streets.

Between Carondelet road and Grand avenue, and Arsenal and the southern limit of the city, the streets and avenues are so irregular, at present, that it is impossible to give their boundaries. The same may be said of the Tenth Ward, or northern section of the city, to some extent.

to be issued about the First of April, to which publication the publisher will more particularly call the attention of the public within the next few weeks.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL!

Office, 18 VINE STREET, betw. Main and Second.

SAINT LOUIS, MO.

Particular care paid to repairing all kinds of Saws.

After four years successful operation we have succeeded in establishing the reputation of Saint Louis Saws over most, and equal to any manufactured in the East. All members of our firm being practical men, and personally exercising a supervision over every department, we are enabled with our knowledge of the steel trade in Sheffield, England, and of all the best makers of steel, and by our experience in the Eastern States and England, to purchase our raw stock on terms equal to any house in the East, and thereby also to manufacture saws equal, in every respect, and in many instances superior to any that are turned out in New York or Boston.

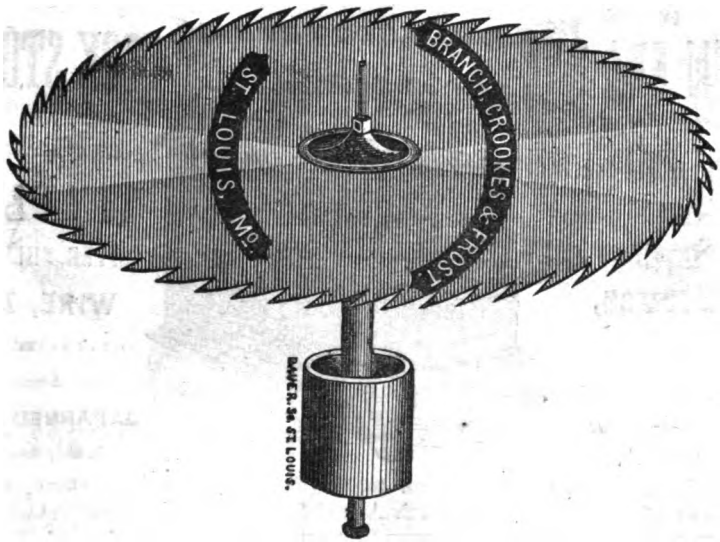
A FIRST CLASS SAW

ENJOYS A HIGH REPUTATION AT HOME,

AND AFTERWARDS, BY ITS OWN INTRINSIC AND RECOGNISED MERITS,



FORCES ITSELF ABROAD!

When we began manufacturing, a FIRST CLASS ST. LOUIS SAW was a thing unknown; but a short time sufficed to prove, that OUR Saws were equal, if not superior, to any brought here from the East. The result is, we are now enabled—and we do it with some pride—to refer to the following Merchants, Machinists, Saw-Mill Manufacturers, Sash, Door and Blind Manufacturers, Saw-Mill Owners and Lumber Merchants of our city, all of whom sell or use our Saws at the present time. To these we have also added the names of some of our country patrons. The list speaks for itself, and also for us.

Whitley's Patent DOUBLE CIRCULAR SAW MILL, Patented March 4, 1856, Manufactured by CLARK, AVERY & VOORHIES, at

THE PEOPLE'S IRON WORKS,

Main street, between Florida and Mullanphy sts., north of the shot tower, St. Louis.

The above Mill, in its construction combines novelty and simplicity; either portable or stationary, as may be required, and of several different sizes; it is equally adapted to Steam, Water, Horse or Windmill power; and its simplicity, cheapness, durability, strength and easy management, cannot fail to convince every person after a glance at its combined improvements, that it is the best mill now in use for making lumber. The frame is of oak; it has two saws, one above the other, and in line with each other, so as to assist in cutting off the swell, butts, slab and knots, and in splitting large logs. The upper saw can be moved on the arcs so as to cut two planks with one run of the carriage, and for fencing, from two to eight boards may be cut at once. The after ends of the saw shafts are connected by an arm, which serves as a guide to both shafts, so that complete control may be had over the saws while running; it also serves for their adjustment, and keeps them true with each other while cutting. They are capable of sawing 1,000 feet per hour, and will work in all kinds of lumber without sawing crooked. We warrant the Mills to perform in every respect as represented. Any information respecting them will be cheerfully given on application to our agents, W. M. PLANT & CO., No. 14 North Main street, or to ISAAC L. GARRISON, President of Home Mutual Insurance Company, corner of Main and Vine streets. ☞ Horse Powers and Steam Engines furnished with the Mills at short notice and upon satisfactory terms.

FOR THE CURE OF EVERY FORM OF

HEMORRHOIDS, OR PILES,

Whether of long standing or recent origin; internal or external; whether attended with Prolapsus, Hemmorrhage, or Obstruction; and all by EXTERNAL APPLICATION!

No internal adjuvants being required in any case, only to regulate the bowels, if constipated, or in Diarrhœa and Dysentery.

The Piles, while astonishingly prevalent in their various forms, amongst all classes of both sexes, are, at the same time, the most distressing, frequently dangerous, and hitherto most difficult of cure.

Persons who suffer any length of time with the Piles, generally try everything they can learn of, purporting to cure the disease, yet realize no permanent advantage therefrom. They have been told, professionally, perhaps, there was "no permanent cure for Piles," and consequently have despaired of any future cessation from pain and suffering.

To all such, a SPECIFIC is offered for their relief, which has stood the test of more than twelve years' active practice, and during that time has never failed, within the knowledge of the proprietor, of CURING EVERY CASE.

DR. CAVANAUGH'S PILE SALVE,

Is a strictly scientific combination of well known remedial agents; and has been brought to its present perfection by a continued series of experiments, extending through years of patient study and investigation, in a field where ample opportunities were afforded for thoroughly testing its virtues. The proprietor has no hesitancy in saying, that his Pile Salve is the FIRST AND ONLY INFALLIBLE SPECIFIC EVER DISCOVERED, for that disease, and which cures by

OUTWARD APPLICATION ONLY!

And that, in time to come, as in the past, it will stand the test of trial, without a failure to perform all the proprietor claims for it, if his directions are attended to.

A large number of gentlemen throughout the country, of high character and influence, have voluntarily attested to its efficacy in their own cases, not of hearsay—a few of whose certificates only can be introduced here.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 1, 1856.

This is to inform the afflicted with Hemorrhoids or Piles, that I was troubled with that distressing disease for about nine years, at times so as to be scarce able to walk—using every means to alleviate my sufferings advised by physicians and others, all without any permanent benefit, as my disease seemed to grow worse, and my physicians despaired of my cure. About June last, I procured a bottle of "Dr. Cavanaugh's Pile Salve," by the aid of which I am now well, able to attend to my business, ride or walk, as my need may be. A. REINBOLD, Fourth street.

The following is from one of the most reliable citizens of Chicago, late Treasurer of Cook Co., Ill:

CHICAGO, July 25, 1855.

DR. CAVANAUGH—DEAR SIR: I wish hereby to make known to the afflicted that I have been troubled with the Piles for twenty years or upwards, and at times most severely. And during a recent and exceedingly painful attack, a friend procured a box of your Salve and asked me to give it a trial. I did so—not, however, with the expectation of benefitting my disease, for truly I had tried so many applications I had lost confidence in all. But in making use of your Salve, I soon found that it was doing me good; and really it is incredible to my self, that with only about two weeks' use of your Salve, I am, so far as I can judge, a well man. I most cheerfully make this statement, believing it due both to yourself and such as may be afflicted with this most trying and painful disease. I do not hesitate to say, that I consider your preparation an invaluable remedy for the Piles. Most sincerely, yours, H. N. HEALD.

The Hon. RICHARD YATES, formerly Member of Congress from the Springfield (Ills.) District, says:

JACKSONVILLE, Ills., Nov. 15, 1854.

DR. THOS. CAVANAUGH—DEAR SIR: The preparation, Cavanaugh's Pile Salve, which you furnished, I found of great service, producing an easy and speedy cure. I do not hesitate to recommend it as an invaluable remedy for the Piles.
Respectfully, RICHARD YATES.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 6, 1856.

Having used your "Pile Salve," I feel that I can cheerfully recommend it to all persons suffering with that distressing complaint—Piles. Respectfully, W. M. SHELTON.

VINCENNES, Ind., September, 1856.

The Salve, I am happy to inform you, is having the desired effect. It is certainly the best remedy for that distressing disease I ever heard of, and its virtues should be generally known. Respectfully, J. G. HUTCHENSON.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 3, 1856.

We will take pleasure in recommending your "Pile Salve," as we know it is all you represent it to be, by trial.
Very truly, yours, C. C. BUTLER & CO.

The following, from the Rev. B. F. BRISTOW, is a sufficient recommendation in itself:

JACKSONVILLE, Ills., Dec. 15, 1854.

DR. CAVANAUGH: I conceive it to be a duty I owe to the afflicted, to make known the invaluable virtues and remedial efficacy of your "Pile Salve." I was for several weeks sorely afflicted with that painful and loathsome disease, the Piles.—After having exhausted my patience in trying various prescriptions of physicians and others without receiving any benefit, upon the strong recommendation of your Salve by my friend, the Hon. Richard Yates, I was induced to try it. I am happy in saying, an application of your Salve, for three days, perfected an entire cure. Respectfully, yours, B. F. BRISTOW.

CINCINNATI, (Ohio,) June 7, 1856.

I had the pleasure of having a friend of mine present me with a box of your "Pile Salve," and finding great relief from its use, I take the liberty of writing, to learn where I can procure another box. Yours, very truly, LUCIUS C. BUELL.

PRICE, ONE DOLLAR PER BOX, RETAIL. The Pile Salve is put up in glass jars, inclosed in a paper box, properly labeled, and will keep any length of time.

HIGHEST PREMIUM, CRYSTAL PALACE, NEW YORK, 1853; DIPLOMA MARYLAND INSTITUTE, BALTIMORE, 1855; AGRICULTURAL AND MECHANICAL FAIR, ST. LOUIS, 1856, AWARDED TO

Summers' Improved Traveling Trunk, Pat. Sept. 30, 1856.

The subscriber respectfully submits to the public his improved Traveling Trunk. Being long engaged as a manufacturer, I am satisfied no Trunk, made in the ordinary way, can stand the usage for which they are designed.

The essential features of my improvement consist in

SOLID METALIC ENDS, CONNECTING WITH IRON BARS INSIDE,

Extending lengthwise across the bottom and up the ends, forming a firm support for the Tray, and securing the Castors on the bottom, allowing the leather to intervene between the Castor and inside Bar. The elasticity of the leather prevents the Castors from being broken off; and it can be more firmly riveted on, doing away entirely with the bottom strips, which are a continual annoyance, liable to be broken and torn off every time they are used. A Trunk made on this principle, the body must be made of one piece of leather, and will not permit of being pieced as Trunks are generally made in the ordinary way, and covered with the bottom strip, completely hiding the piecing on the bottom. This Trunk must be made honestly, as it CANNOT be slighted. And nothing can injure it, unless the force would be sufficient to crush the material of which it is constructed. The principle is cheap and simple—allowing a neater finish—costing the purchaser no more. As I have not advanced the price, the public are respectfully invited to call and examine my stock, before purchasing elsewhere, as I am determined my Improved Trunk shall be all it is represented.

We have constantly on hand, solid Sole Leather, and Ladies' French Trunks, Hat Cases, Wood Folios, Valises, Carpet Bags, Packing Trunks, and Trunks especially for the Santa Fe trade. Merchants and dealers in Trunks will find the largest assortment, and at lower prices, than at any establishment in the city.

Trunks made to order, covered or exchanged, at the Eagle Wholesale and Retail Trunk Manufactory, No. 16 Vine Street,

Opposite King's Hotel, St. Louis, Mo.

S. F. SUMMERS.

The following are the testimonials of the best Manufacturers of the West, and the best practical Trunk Makers, East, regarding my improvement in Trunks.

PITTSBURGH, August 9, 1856.

We have examined a Trunk got up by Mr. S. F. Summers, which is entirely different from anything we have ever before witnessed. Having been long engaged in the manufacturing of Trunks ourselves, we have no hesitation in saying that we consider it a decided improvement, and well calculated for durability and convenience.

Very Respectfully, R. H. HARTLEY.

PHILADELPHIA, August 20, 1856.

We, the undersigned, practical Trunk Makers, of Philadelphia, having examined S. F. Summers' Improved Trunk, would recommend it as being superior to anything of the kind we have ever seen; and the only and best possible way a Trunk can be made to stand the hard usage given by traveling.

WE HAVE PURCHASED THE PATENT FOR THE STATE OF MISSOURI, FOR A

Merchant Flouring Mill,

Patented by E. & J. M. CLARK, and are making extensive preparations for its manufacture, at the Corner Main and Ashley sts.,

ST. LOUIS, MO.,

Where we respectfully solicit orders for the above justly celebrated Mill. We have a full sized mill, (being only 26 feet in length, 5 feet wide, and 5 feet high,) in the third story of our building, in daily operation, where all parties may satisfy themselves in regard to its merits. We claim for the mill, not only a superiority over the ordinary Flouring Mills, in point of compactness and simplicity, but that it will do the work of a mill costing, in the aggregate, from eight to ten thousand dollars, in the same time and in a more satisfactory manner, making a greater yield of flour per bushel of wheat, and requiring only one-fifth of the power to run it. It is so constructed that it can be attached to any power in operation, at a trifling expense; or, should parties purchasing require it, we will furnish an engine and boiler complete, warranted abundant power to operate the mill, for $900.

LILLIE'S

CHILLED IRON SAFES!

VAULT DOORS

AND BANK LOCKS.

MANUFACTURED BY THE WORLD'S SAFE CO.

CHILLED IRON BANK SAFES!

OF LILLIE'S PATENT,

Are from two to four inches thick, Solid Metal, harder than hardened Steel. They are perfectly Drill Proof, as the term is universally accepted.

They are all fastened with Lillie's Bank Lock, which is the only perfectly Powder Proof Bank Lock in use.

This Lock has stood the Test, for Six years, of the Lock-Pick, and Burglars, without alteration.

These Safes and Locks have been extensively manufactured for six years, and have successfully withstood a single-handed competition against the combined efforts of all SHEET IRON SAFE MAKERS and Bank Lock Manufacturers. We will not produce bought or untruthful certificates to substantiate their reputation, but will say, without fear of contradiction, that FOUR HUNDRED BANKS, and as many thousand other institutions of comparative equal importance, are now using them, and from which a dollar was never stolen through their inefficiency, or lost by fire; and we are at liberty to refer to the following in THIS CITY who have our Safes and Bank Locks in use.

Bank of the State of Missouri,
D. Rokohl & Co., Bankers,
Home Mutual Insurance Company,
St. Louis Building and Savings Institution,
Merchants and Manufacturers' Savings Institut'n,
G. W. Loker, Banker,
Spaunhorst & Co., Grocers,
Townsend, Robinson & Co., Commission Merchants.

WESTERN DEPOT FOR SINGER'S SEWING MACHINES,

EDWIN DEAN, Agent,

No. 106 Fourth Street, St. Louis, Mo.

THESE Machines have an established reputation all over the civilized world. Some of their main practical advantages over other machines for similar purposes, are as follows :

1st. They are superior in contrivance. Many distinct improvements, secured by numerous patents, are combined in them, and the minute perfections attained by years of laborious and costly experimenting, have been added to them.

2d. They are superior in mechanical workmanship. No attempt has ever been made at expensive ornamentation; but all the working parts of Singer's Machines are made with the highest possible finish, without regard to the cost.

3d. They are more profitable to the user than any other. The fair average, clear profit, of one of Singer's Machines, regularly employed, is

ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS A YEAR.

4th. THEY ARE UNIVERSAL IN THEIR APPLICATION TO PRACTICAL WORK. With the same machine fine muslin may be stitched with the finest cotton thread, every description of tailoring work be done, and shoes, harness, or other leather stitching, be executed, and each of these kinds of work be performed better than by any other machine.

5th. They are more durable and less liable to get out of order. This results, necessarily, from perfect contrivance and construction.

6th. A single one of Singer's Machines, being adapted to all kinds of work, renders it immeasurably superior to all others for

Family and Plantation Sewing,

Fragile ard delicate machines, made to please the eye, have no claim to the title of Family Sewing Machines. From the very nature of their construction, they are limited in their operation — are constantly getting out of order, and soon become mere useless lumber. FAMILY SEWING MACHINES ought to be stronger than any other, as a greater variety of work is required of them, and they go into less skillful hands.

7th. Singer's Machine makes a fast stitch that will never rip, nor ravel, nor pull out.

8th. A Singer Sewing Machine has never yet been returned because it would not operate. This cannot be said of any other Sewing Machine.

9th. Whoever buys a Singer Machine knows to a certainty it will perform the work required.

10th. SINGER'S MACHINE IS WARRANTED FOR A YEAR.

EDWIN DEAN, AGENT,

No. 106 Fourth st., West side, between Locust and St. Charles, opposite Ten Buildings, St. Louis, Mo.

☞ All persons wishing full information about Singer's Machines can obtain it by applying, by letter, for a copy of "I. M. Singer & Co.'s Gazette," a paper entirely devoted to the subject. It will be sent gratis.
